

Confirmation

Do you mind if I confirm?

Ok, I'd like to confirm.

Let me confirm.

Can I confirm?

_____ statement _____. Is this correct?

_____ statement _____. Is that right?

_____ statement _____, correct?

_____ statement _____, right?

_____ statement _____, yes?

Let me get this straight, reworded _____.

Let me see if I understand, reworded _____.

Do you mean reworded _____ ?

You mean reworded _____ ?

A: We are considering a new home.

B: Let me get this straight, you want to buy a new house?

A: That's the plan.

Am I correct in saying _____ reworded _____ ?

Would I be safe in saying reworded _____ ?

Would it be safe to say _____ reworded _____ ?

Would it be correct to say reworded _____ ?

A: We'll need to infuse the market with more capital if we want to avoid another recession.

B: Am I correct in saying we are heading into a recession?

A: Not if we are careful and act now.

Confirmation

- A: So how have you been recently?
B: I've been ok but I haven't gone out much.
A: Why not?
B: Well, I'm trying to save money. We're thinking about buying a new car.
A: Really? But you bought a car last year, right?
B: Yep, that's right.
A: Let me get this straight. You want to get a second car?
B: No, not a second car. We just want to get a bigger car.
A: Ok, why?
B: Well, we are going to need a bigger car for the kids.
A: The kids! Do you mean you're going to have a baby?
B: That's right.
A: Wow. Congratulations.

- A: How are things at work?
B: Recently I've been incredibly busy.
A: Why is that?
B: Well, I have to write a new sales proposal. It's very challenging.
A: I see. Is it safe to say you'll get the client?
B: I'm not sure yet. But, I think there is a good chance.
A: Good luck.
B: You got a few new clients recently, right?
A: That's right. This year has been good, but it's been tough.
B: Would it be safe to say this has been your best year so far?
A: You could probably say that.
B: Well, then maybe you can help me with my sales proposal.
A: Sure. I'd be happy to help you.