Parts of the Head

About the worksheet

This is a simple vocabulary worksheet for parts of the face. It works great as a review worksheet and is maybe best used with adults. Sometimes in conversations little groups of vocabulary words pop up or a student asks about the words. In that case I just try to address the students' questions and draw a quick face on the paper or whiteboard. Later I might come back with a sheet like this to see what they remember.

I've provided the second page, without the terms to let you really test the students' memory with no hints.

Using the worksheet

Honestly you just don't need it. All you really need to do is point to your face or draw a simple face on the board or paper if you can. For some students it might be helpful as a follow up, quick writing activity or review.
