

but - and

Use but and and in this conversation.

- A: How was your weekend?
B: It was good. I was tired on Sunday night.
A: Really? What did you do on Sunday?
B: I took my kids to an amusement park.
A: Sounds good. How was it?
B: It was fun. It was expensive.
A: Really? How much did it cost?
B: The ferris wheel cost ten dollars.
A: Wow! What else did you do at the park?
B: We rode a roller coaster. We got a lot of food. It was fun. My son felt sick after.

I had a good weekend,	but	I was tired on Sunday.
I want to go to Hawaii,		it's expensive.
I'm going grocery shopping,		I don't want to go.
We went to the pool,	and	we had a great time.
In winter, I go skiing,		in summer, I go water skiing.
I'm going to buy some shoes,		I'm going to get my hair cut.

Use but and and in this conversation.

- A: What did you do yesterday?
B: I went out with my best friend. We had dinner. We had some drinks.
A: Sounds great. Where did you go?
B: We went to a cafe. We stayed there for three hours.
A: Nice. How often do you go out together?
B: We go out about twice a week. On weekends, we go out for drinks. On weekdays, we go out for coffee. How about you? What did you do yesterday?
A: I went running in the morning. I met my friends at night.

But - And

The use of but and and is a great way to get started making longer sentences and expressing reasons for actions or ideas.

How to use the worksheet.

1. Open with a warmup conversation on a related topic.
2. Read conversation one.
Use but and and to make the conversation more natural.
3. If necessary, drill the patterns.
4. Start a new conversation and make sure to use these patterns while talking.

Variations

5. Use the second conversation in class, as homework, as a review on a different day, or with a different group in the same class.

Have a suggestion, request or idea? Notice a typo or want to suggest a change?
Write in!

contact@myenglishimages.com